Trying to take over peoples 401k and IRSs under the guise of giving them a "t-bill option" will lead to a larger taxpayer-revolt than is currently underway in the Tea Party movement.

Since I was 23 ive been getting by with only 85% of my income, so that I can save 15%... going without the fancy car, or the flashy clothes, or the vacations, so that I would have a nest egg.

Keep you hands off my retirement accounts.
